Tuesday

The formless world is the reality or real world that we often speak. It is and always has been in alignment to truth. The human aspect of the earth experience never has been. This is what we seek to change.

Humans have the gift of free will. We do not seek to inflict change upon them externally. They have to be willing to allow the gift of transformation from the inside out. They have to reach a tipping point where they are willing to admit to themselves that they are complete in selfishness and are willing to explore a new possibility.

Most humans are very social. They look to each other to find out what to do and how to do it. They teach each other good and bad.

One of the first lessons someone needs to learn is that they are a part of God. God is here and always has been. God is not "out there" but "in here". God looks like you and your neighbor because God is you and God is your neighbor.

The religiously oriented may have the most trouble with this but that's what A Course in Miracles does. It introduces new thinking. It is step one. Some people, many people, need to start there.

Those who do not have the baggage of heavy religious dogma can skip A Course in Miracles and go right into A Course of Love. They may visit A Course in Miracles later on, out of curiosity.

As you can see, the process will be the same for new initiates as it was for you. Adaptations will need to be made for those who do not have a warm relationship with reading. Audio books, videos and word of mouth are good alternatives. It's not the form that matters. It is the content, as with everything else.

Wednesday

Specific instructions on what exactly to do in each situation you encounter will be provided to you at the moment they are needed. The intent is always to bless, to enhance divine qualities that are always there, despite appearances. This is what we need each of you to do. This is the divine, creative act. How you exactly accomplish this is through your individuated forms, your individual gifts and contributions to the whole.

We become a machine, complex and united. Where will we be in 5 years? The House of Truth will be stronger and more tightly knit together. The House of Illusion will still be as attractive to humans as ever, but there will be a very powerful alternative in place.

The House of Truth is still in its infancy. There have been mighty road blocks to its construction here. Misunderstandings about the basic concepts are to blame.

Chapter Twenty Seven

Thursday

Let us begin this day with gratitude with what the past has brought us and provided to us. We carry the past with us, both as cherished prizes and raw wounds. This is what we as spiritual light workers must model and share to the world; how to process those painful moments in life, without carrying it into the present moment. We are not taught how to do this.

The main message of A Course in Miracles is about forgiveness and letting the pain of the past be released and not burden our souls any longer. forgiveness is a letting go and yet it is a process. It takes time to get to that juncture. It doesn't happen overnight. It may be a painful process.

I have taught you that you have attached meaning and to the words and behavior of others, as well as yourself. Sometimes, oftentimes, the meaning becomes larger than what was expressed through language or behavior. This does not negate the hurtful language or behavior from others. This is another key misunderstanding of A Course in Miracles, that we imagine everything and maybe even each other. Maybe the characters in your hallucination are simply conjured up and don't actually exist at all. And if they do exist, they are innocent and did not actually say, not say, do or not do the things we think they did.

While there certainly is innocence here, the innocence of the soul seedlings activating each body, it is unfortunately, not where most people are functioning. They largely function from unprocessed and collected traumatic events from the past. These deep seated feelings get bottled up, where either they combust internally, producing disease, or get thrown as projectiles at others. So, yes, learning how to process these things is crucial to understanding them and not letting them grow as weeds, interfering in your ability to live clearly and freely in the moment.

You each accentuate words and behavior with meaning and yet the words and behavior weren't mere imaginings. They really happened and will continue to happen here, until people awaken from egoic functioning. End Time: 3:19 A.M.

Chapter Twenty Eight

Friday

Shadow figures are the unforgiven souls from the past, both recent and long term. Each human has several and egoically identified groups have several as well. They are the true demons here. What they did was unforgiveable and yet many of these folks are not alive in form any longer or have whereabouts unknown. The stories about what these characters did grew out of proportion to what actually transpired.

They cast a shadow on each precious human life. You yourself may very well be a shadow figure to a brother or sister. Maybe you made a hurtful comment or action and weren't able to remedy it.

Hitler is probably the biggest and most well known shadow figure as are some other notorious criminals. These people did not keep their own gardens tended and ended up projecting their own anger about their own shadow figures.

This is the tragic aspect of human life. Very few can adequately process their feelings and become possessed with thoughts about those who wronged them.

Besides teaching others about the nature of God and how they are integral aspects of it, teaching about understanding and release of pent up thoughts about someone is the next crucial part of each of your missions.

The truth is, while it may be true that someone did or said something, you yourself have done or said the same thing in a different place and time and if you didn't, you're either not being truthful or you have forgotten. These things can't define you anymore. Every human soul is better than their weakest moments.

Love understands and love looks past words and behavior. We do not define each other because of these things. A world without shadow figures would be a very different world. Share this with everyone we send to you.

Chapter Twenty Nine

5:15 A.M.

Saturday

Begin again. Start over. Let everything from the past go. Let earthly identities go. Be light. Don't be weighed down. Be fresh. Be ready to respond to what this present moment brings you. Allow your inner sweetness to shine through. This is how life here is supposed to be but sadly isn't.

I say "life here" because you are each alive in some way, in some form, always. You are immortal. You have been here many times. Your lives may have included being a judge in the "wild west" days and also being a thief in ancient persia. It was all part of your soul's journey, its development to maturity, where it will one day re-join its creator, the source of all of creation.

This is what you are to model and teach in each waking moment. By now, you have each established a solid spiritual practice that works for you with whatever that entails. Make sure to create time and space for this. You will need to be fully charged at all times and in all places. Your charger is built in and goes where you go. There's no danger of losing it.

Let the light pour out of you while staying plugged in. We know this is difficult to do with some of the situations and assignments we have put many of you in. Strive to keep plugged in and you will succeed.

May the love that you are embrace the love that everyone is, in truth.
